What Is Personal Information?

As used in this Policy, the term "personally identifiable information" means information that specifically identifies an individual (such as a name, user name or e-mail address), or information about that individual that is directly linked to information that specifically identifies an individual. Personally identifiable information does not include "aggregate" information, which is data we collect about the use of the Service or about a group or category of services or users, from which individual identities or other personally identifiable information has been removed. This Policy does not limit our collection and use of aggregate information.

What Information Do We Collect?

Active Collection: We collect information from you in various ways when you use the Service. For example, we collect information: (i) that you voluntarily provide to us (such as when you send us an email); and (ii) to which you provide us access. Such information may include personal information, such as your name, email address, and performance related data.

We do not ask you for, access or track any location based information from your mobile device at any time while downloading or using our Service.

Passive Collection: Passive Collection: When you use our Service, some information is also automatically collected, such as your Internet Protocol (IP) address, your operating system, the browser type, the address of a referring website, and your activity on the Service. We may also automatically collect certain information through the use of "cookies" when you use the Service. Cookies are small data files stored on your hard drive at the request of a website. However, if you choose to remove or reject cookies, this could affect certain features or services made available via the Service.

We may use web beacons or similar technology on the Service. We do not tie the information gathered by clear gifs to our customers' personally identifiable information. Web beacons are small, invisible graphic images that may be used on the Service to collect certain information and monitor user activity on the Service, such as to count visits, understand usage effectiveness and to tell if an email has been opened and acted upon. Such technologies are used to collect aggregate statistics related to usage of the Service and do not collect personally identifiable information.

Personally identifiable information will be stored on secured servers, and we may store and process personally identifiable information in the United States and other countries.
